IKS Health Appoints Mayank Pant as Senior Vice President of Outcomes Excellence & Product Innovation

BRIDGEWATER, NJ – October 17, 2019 – IKS Health, a premier healthcare solutions organization, today announced the appointment of entrepreneur, revenue cycle expert and growth strategist, Mayank Pant, to the role of senior vice president (SVP) of outcomes excellence and product innovation. Pant will guide strategy and growth acceleration initiatives for IKS' tech-led, human-enabled, integrated revenue cycle management (RCM) services, which serves the unique requirements of hospitals, health systems and specialty practices and helps them address key challenges across the organization.

At IKS he will be driving the organization's strategy as it relates to market disruption in the revenue cycle space. "We need to consider how we are reinventing ourselves and in addition to that reinventing the market as we're seeing the market move to value," Pant says. "We're one of very few companies looking forward to value and understanding that if the industry stays status quo we will all be disrupted."

An accomplished healthcare innovator and thought leader, Pant brings to IKS nearly two decades of experience managing and growing RCM as well as other provider and payer support services through a globalized delivery model. Before joining IKS, Pant served as a founding member and SVP of Reventics, Inc., an end-to-end provider engagement company. Prior to his time at Reventics, he spent over a decade at Sutherland Healthcare Solutions in a variety of roles focused on driving organic growth and delivery excellence. With his proven ability and vast industry expertise, Pant joins IKS Health to continue spearheading improvements that will impact non-standardized processes and drive insights with technology-centered solutions, including predictive analytics and artificial intelligence (AI). Additionally, Pant will work to provide IKS' customers a truly integrated, 360-degree view of their healthcare analytics to address various pain points within their revenue cycle and practice operations.

"Mayank's vision and depth of expertise in healthcare will empower IKS Health to further transform the RCM experience for providers across the nation, helping them gain more efficiency and insight into their revenue cycle through technology-driven processes to help increase revenue and improve patient access," says Sachin K. Gupta, Founder & CEO, IKS Health. "Mayank will be instrumental in leading our team forward, deepening innovation in areas including AI and machine learning and developing solutions to best serve our clients and enhance their financial and operational strength."

At IKS, Pant will be primarily responsible for enhancing IKS' RCM solution, Margin, which enables organizations to holistically analyze and gather insights from data across the organization to increase collections, reduce cost to collect and scale seamlessly as they grow. Pant will also work closely with various IKS teams to ensure integrated and consolidated product standardization for the RCM portfolio and expanding IKS' RCM offerings to help solve larger industry challenges and enable further success in a value-based world.

“The need for strong and integrated revenue cycle management strategy and solutions are at an all-time high for healthcare organizations of all sizes,” says Pant. “I am humbled to join the IKS team as I’ve long admired the organization and its forward-looking vision to make the healthcare market more approachable and integrated, offering holistic views of healthcare solutions, solving industry challenges, and helping organizations drive and improve their business to achieve greater success and patient satisfaction.”
