IKS Health Names David Suh as Senior Vice President of Value-Based Care

BRIDGEWATER, NJ – November 5, 2019 – IKS Health, a premier healthcare solutions organization, today announced that healthcare leader and value-based care expert David Suh has joined its leadership team as senior vice president (SVP) of value-based care. Suh will have a hand in guiding IKS’ evolving product suite and will further support the organization to help hospitals, health systems and specialty practices to achieve greater success and improved patient outcomes in the world of value.

With a tenure at Healthcare Partners Medical Group, a pioneer in success in value-based care, Suh brings over two decades of executive level experience with him to IKS. Most recently he served as VP of Risk Adjustment Programs at Landmark Health, an industry leader of in-home medical care. He has also held leadership roles at The Sunnata Group, Accretive Health, as well as HealthCare Partners Medical Group in California. Having also garnered extensive expertise in CMS Medicare risk adjustment, Suh joins IKS to continue strengthening the organization while enabling its clients to successfully navigate their journey from volume to value.

“David has a long history of helping organizations tap into a larger vision and propelling them forward in the changing healthcare landscape,” says Sachin K. Gupta, founder and CEO, IKS Health. “We’re honored and excited to be joined by such an effective, innovative expert, who will no doubt fit in perfectly with our teams to work towards the shared vision of better care and value for all. As we adapt our existing services and solutions to further improve population health outcomes and develop new products to enable success in value-based models, he will play an integral role in driving innovation for our clients and their patients to sustain quality care delivery.”

In his new role, Suh will work directly with Gupta on product innovation and improving IKS’ platform suite, including bridging the organization’s RCM solution, Margin and its clinical support solution, Care, to identify the synergies in which IKS can support organizations that are operating in both fee-for-service and fee-for-value contracts. He will collaborate across IKS teams to support product development, strategy and proliferation with an eye towards value.

“Discovering and developing new ways for providers to uncover and activate value in their practice is paramount in today’s changing healthcare landscape,” says David Suh, SVP of Value-Based Care. “I am thrilled to join the IKS team as they are uniquely positioned to meet these industry opportunities head on. I look forward to enhancing our clients’ businesses, as well as elevating IKS’ market position, through newly designed and optimized platforms that will help in achieving newfound growth and value-based care goals in the years to come.”
